

FOR PRESS RELEASE

It's Poetry In Any Language

2/27/2014

Contact: Rocío M. Fuentes
Chairperson, 2014 CT COLT Poetry Recitation Contest
Central Connecticut State University
1615 Stanley Street, New Britain, CT 06050

For thirty-two years public and private schools in the State have awarded thousands of certificates to World Language students who have participated in the Poetry Recitation Contests sponsored by the Connecticut Council of Language Teachers (CT COLT), an organization composed of language teachers from most schools in Connecticut.

This year's event is hosted by Central CT State University in New Britain. Approximately 435 students from 50 schools will compete in 16 languages including American Sign Language (ASL), Ancient Greek, Arabic, Mandarin Chinese, English Language Learners (ESOL/ELL), French, German, Modern Greek, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Latin, Polish, Portuguese, Russian and Spanish.

Students prepare in their home schools: middle schools and high schools. Poems for Middle School and Level HS1 will have between 10 – 20 lines. All other levels will have no less than 14 nor more than 30 lines. Students will be judged in four areas: memorization, diction, interpretation, and body language. Latin and Ancient Greek poetry must be recited according to the classical metrics. In some of the languages, student selected poems from a predetermined slate while in other languages student were free to select a poem of their choice. The following categories will be judged: Middle School, beginning and continuing; High School levels 1-6; Heritage Speakers (MS and HS) for students of Arabic, Mandarin Chinese, French, German, Modern Greek, Italian, Japanese, Latin, Polish, Portuguese, Russian and Spanish. Latin and Ancient Greek students do not have the latter category. There are only heritage speaker categories (Middle School and High School) for Korean. American Sign Language students include hearing and hearing impaired anywhere from one year to three years or more. ESOL students include high-beginner, intermediate and advanced for MS and HS. There will be up to three prizes for each level of each language. All participants are awarded certificates of participation. The host school will receive a plaque to be displayed in their school.

Rocío M. Fuentes, Assistant Professor of Modern Languages and Coordinator of the Foreign Language Teacher Education Program at Central CT State University in New Britain, is the chairperson of this year's event. She is confident that it will be the greatest ever because of the ardent support of the language teachers and the enthusiasm of the students. The event will take place on March 17th at CCSU promptly at 3:30 p.m. Registration begins at 3:00 p.m. Please join us for the 33rd CT COLT Poetry Recitation Contest.

At Central CT State University, the contest will begin with registration at 3:00 p.m. and will end at 6:30 p.m. News coverage is welcome at the awards presentation; we consider this event the "Super Bowl of Foreign Languages" and greatly appreciate your support! If you need additional information or would like to confirm attendance, please contact Rocío M. Fuentes at rocio.fuentes@ccsu.edu.

Please send this press release to your local newspapers so that we can publicize this event properly and give it the recognition it truly deserves!!!